Edsyn FXF11

Description Edsyn FXF11 Fume Extractor Unit with Power Supply
The unique spinning effect of the filter makes it work like a filter eight times it's size. Versatile design allows for personal cooling with clean filters or blow drying a circuit board after cleaning the pads. The arm affords a 180 degree tilt range and points air flow precisely where you need it so you can breathe easier. Comes in two styles to suit your needs. Works alone or can adapt easily to most in-house fume extraction systems. Bench-Top systems provide an inexpensive means of removing a good percentage of soldering fumes from a small, localized space. These systems do not remove all of the particulate matter from the area and are not designed as total evacuation systems. The FXF11 system uses dual filters to provide the best performance in their class. The unit is small, ultra quiet and can adjust to almost any working angle. If you are just getting into fume extraction, this is a great first step. These units also can serve as good pre-filters for our larger units.
